TWO TO DIE FOR MURDER OF SINGING GIRL BEAUTY

Sensational Trial Ends In Conviction Of Both Accused

PLOT DRAMATIC

Confessions Of Convicts Full Of Damaging Evidence

DENIED GUILT

All Efforts Of Counsel To Save Prisoners Are Unavailing

Found guilty of murdering Lien Ying, the 20-year-old sing song girl and of robbing her of her jewels, both accused Yen Jui-sung and Ng Tsung-fong were ordered yesterday in the Mixed Court to be handed to the Arsenal authorities for capital punishment.

No more remarkable criminal case, particularly in the eyes of the Chinese of Shanghai, has come to light in recent years, for the victim, little Lien Ying, was a noted charmer whose fame as a songster and entertainer had spread far and wide. In a beauty contest that had been held only a few weeks before the night when she fell into the hands of an assassin she had been accorded the distinction of being the second most lovely sing song girl in all China.

STRANGLED TO DEATH

The method in which the crime was carried out, too, was sinister and fearful, one of the grewsome things of the Orient. It was while speeding in an automobile late at night through the countryside with the man whom she believed to be an ardent admirer that her death was brought about. He coveted the store of costly jewels that she wore—some $6,000 in value—and he strangled her with a silken scarf. The body was then carried into a field in Siccawei.

The Court was in session all day yesterday. The prosecution finished by noon when the Court admitted statements of the accused made by them to the police in spite of the exception taken by Counsel for the first accused, Mr. Lawrence K. Kentwell and Dr. H. C. Mei.

The defense concluded by 4 o'clock and ten minutes later, British Assessor Blackburn and Senior Magistrate Kwan returned a verdict of guilty of both murder and robbery and ordered the prisoners to be handed over to the Chinese authorities.

COURT CROWDED AGAIN

The Court was again crowded in spite of the previous disappointment handed out to many would-be spectators. A large number of foreign spectators had also journeyed out to hear the grewsome story of the crime.

The conclusion of the hearing brings to an end one of the most remarkable criminal cases ever tried in Shanghai. The confession made by the principal accused to the police is in itself a complete drama which might well hold an appeal for any "movie" magnate.

As brought out in the summing up of the prosecuting attorney, Mr. R. C. Faithfull, it was a clear case of murder. The evidence and confessions, he said, coincide with one another perfectly.

Against great odds, counsel for the defense, Messrs. Kentwell and Mei fought for every small point in their client's favor, first on the question of jurisdiction, then on the admissibility of the confessions to the police, and finally on the principle of corpus delicit.

COMMENT OF COUNSEL

The comment of Dr. Mei on the Court's stand in admitting the confession as evidence was itself noteworthy. He said:

"In view of the Court's ruling admitting this confession which we submit to be inadmissible as evidence and as the Court seems to labor under the misapprehension that the police officers' inducement must be expressed in so many words, such as: 'You confess and we will save you from being shot.' If in the inducement there is any implication of a promise, threat or benefit, so as to render the accused's control of his mind or volition disturbed, such an impli-

President's Double Startled Convention

During an afternoon session of the Democratic convention at San Francisco, delegates rubbed their eyes and then rubbed them again as they saw, or thought they saw, President Wilson walking down the aisle. Reports immediately flew the rounds that the President had "put one over" and had come to the convention in person. After considerable excitement it was learned that the President was still in Washington and that his famous "double," Ralph Faulkner, was playing a little joke on the delegates.

General Oi Declares Real Free Government Must Be The Outcome

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, August 25.—General Oi, Japanese Commander-in-Chief in Siberia in the course of an interview, granted to the press today, stated that in view of the fact that the Bolsheviks were only supported by their own party the Soviet Government of Russia could not last long.

He considered that the divided opinion amongst the Allies with regard to Russia was accidental and temporary and that they would no doubt soon take up a uniform standpoint, particularly with regard to Bolshevism. General Oi said that it was difficult to express an opinion with regard to a Buffer State but he believed that in view of conditions in Soviet Russia, a democratic Buffer State in the Far East should certainly be formed as the only means of attaining internal peace.

MORE THAN BUFFER STATE

Asked whether, proving the Buffer State is non-Bolshevik and democratic, it can expect the political and economic support of Japan, General Oi replied that Japan expects not only the Buffer State but also the whole of Russia to become democratic. Coalition with the Bolsheviks in the forming of the Buffer State would be possible, providing they renounced their party interests in favor of those of the country. In the event of the Bolsheviks not being willing to agree to the formation of the Buffer State,

London, August 23.—The Action of Sir Reginald Tower, the Allied High Commissioner at Danzig, in refusing to allow munitions for Poland to be unloaded there, has caused considerable resentment in French official circles and the French Government has notified the Council of Ambassadors that it regards the action as a violation of the Treaty of Versailles.

According to a newspaper report, the French Foreign Office is likely to demand the recall of Sir Reginald Tower.

It appears that he asked the Allies to send 20,000 troops to Danzig without which he would not feel justified in permitting the unloading of munitions, whereas the opinion of the French was that 5,000 troops were ample. Sir Reginald Tower is now awaiting instructions from London.

REDS ENTER GERMANY

Berlin, August 23.—Advices from Koenigsberg state that so far 10,000 Reds have retreated into German territory and that the number is increasing hourly.

London, August 24.—An Allied military occupation of Danzig is being considered. No action has yet been taken but British and French military authorities are conferring on the matter.

BLOCKING RETREAT

Warsaw, August 23.—The Polish forces in the center under Marshal Pilsudski are attempting to cut off the line of retreat of four Red armies and a turning movement is being carried on under highly satisfactory conditions. Up to the present 35,000 prisoners and 200 guns have been taken.

POLES CLAIM MORE GAINS

Warsaw, August 24.—The Poles have recaptured Lomsha and Bielostok. It is officially announced that the 5th Polish army, operating on the northern front has taken 20,000 prisoners including the staffs of two divisions. The total number of prisoners taken by the Poles amounts to 50,000.

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 23.—It is officially announced that a great portion of Lisburn, the scene of the anti-Roman Catholic riots after the murder of District Inspector Swanzy, has been burned down and over forty houses destroyed.

The situation in Belfast is very uneasy. Lisburn is a Unionist town of 12,000 inhabitants, eight miles from Belfast. It is stated that practically all Roman Catholic premises have been gutted. The Fire Brigade worked unceasingly but was powerless.

The five men who murdered Inspector Swanzy, apparently drove out of Belfast in a taxicab, kept the cab within the outskirts of Lisburn, afterwards returning by it, but halfway back they paid off the driver and decamped. Private cars and taxis took up the chase towards Belfast, but overtook the murderers' taxicab only after the men had abandoned it.

The murder is one of the most daring in the history of Irish crimes.

FARE SYNDICATE IS ANSWERED BY SHIPPING FIRM

Butterfield And Swire Company Intimate New Organisation May Be Formed

Statements made in the recent report of the withdrawal of Messrs. Butterfield & Swire from the Yangtsze Chinese Passenger Syndicate have called forth an answer from this firm in the form of a letter. This refers to differences that have arisen between the syndicate of shipping compradores and the various shipping companies and intimates that a new organisation may succeed the one that has been functioning. The letter is given as follows:

"The Yangtsze Chinese Passenger Syndicate in courting publicity in your columns of their present position have not told all the story nor have they told it accurately. The Agreement with the Companies which was to support the Syndicate with advantage to all concerned including the public has not been kept, and the management have apparently been under the impression that the Syndicate could be run subject to all kinds of irregularities and entirely without regard to the interests of the Companies.

"Having objected to effective control by the Companies they are now apparently concerned at the inevitable result and doubtless derive little satisfaction from the fact that the failure of this Syndicate to continue will probably only make way for another, properly controlled.

Finger Prints Solve Two-Year-Old Double Killing

The mystery of the murder of Edith L. Janney and Arthur L. Kupter near Rahway, N. J., two years ago, has been cleared up by the confessions of two New York convicts, according to statements made by New Jersey officials. The confessions have not been verified, it is said. The double murder was committed on August 21, 1918. Miss Janney, twenty, and Kupfer, twenty-nine, were found lying in a road in Rahway. The bodies were half a mile apart. Harold V. Lamble, alias George Brandon, and George Perchanda, both of whom are serving sentences at Auburn prison, are the men accused by Prosecutor W. L. Herfield and Chief of Detectives John A. Gelatian, of Union County, N. J. According to Prosecutor Hetfield finger prints found on Kupfer's automobile correspond exactly with those of Lamble and Perchanda. Perchanda, in an alleged confession, told of how he had his friend Brandon stopped Kupfer's motor car and asked for a ride. Once in the car they shot the couple and threw the bodies to the roadway. Extradition papers are now being drawn to take the convicts to New Jersey for trial.

Lucerne Note Puts End To Danger Of Powers Being In Disagreement

Prussian And Russian Soviet Hope Of Quarrel Fades When Text Of Communique Is Published Telling Of Harmony

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 23.—A communique has been issued from Lucerne emphasising the complete agreement between Great Britain and Italy with regard to the need for the re-establishment of world-wide peace and the steps which the two governments have taken to restore communication between Russia and the outside world.

It declares that Mr. Lloyd George and Signor Giolitti heard with profound regret that the Soviet government had, despite repeated official assurances to the contrary, sought to impose on Poland conditions incompatible with national independence.

"The Government of Poland," the note continues, "is based on the choice of the whole adult male population of the country without distinction of class, and this so-called civil army to be drawn from one class only, which is referred to in the Fourth Condition of the Soviet Terms, is only an indirect method of organising a force to overthrow by violence this democratic constitution and of substituting for it a despotism of the privileged few who may have absorbed the doctrines of Bolshevism.

LIKE RUSSIAN REDS

"We apprehend that when the detailed conditions of the composition and direction of this force, kept back as they are now until Poland demobilises her army, are revealed later on, they will be found to be moulded on the plan of the Russian Red army.

"For one nation to insist as a condition of peace that the force organised for the protection of life, property, and good order in another country shall be drawn only from one class of its citizens, to the exclusion of all others, is an unwarranted infringement of the liberty, independence, and self-respect of that country. To have added such a condition after M. Kameneff's pledges to the British Government, that nothing which was not of a secondary nature was omitted from his summary of the terms is a gross breach of faith and negotiations of any kind with a government which so lightly treats its word became difficult, if not impossible.

REJECTED TRUCE

"The Soviet government rejected the suggestion made by the British government for the making of a truce, under conditions which would have guaranteed Russian territory against any acts of aggression, and continued its career of invasion of ethnographical Poland with a view to conquering that country by force of arms for Soviet institutions. If the Soviet government, notwithstanding the punishment which its aggression is encountering, still refuses to withdraw this sinister proposal, and continues war inside Polish territory in order to force its acceptance on the Polish people, no government can either acknowledge or deal with the Soviet oligarchy.

Authorities Defied By Californian When He Is Ordered From Hall

Hersman Stands By Patriots And Refuses To Move Until Nipponese Withdraw Charges Of Holding Assemblage Without Permission

(Reuter's Service)

Seoul, August 25.—A regrettable incident occurred here this afternoon when Congressman H. S. Hersman of California came into conflict with the police. With Japanese approval the Congressional party had accepted the invitation of the Korean Y.M.C.A. to meet returned students and others. The news of this meeting resulted in a crowd gathering at the Y.M.C.A., and the police therefore changed the place of the meeting to the Chosen Hotel. The Koreans refused to accept the change.

Mr. Hersman, who was out sightseeing, saw the crowd and entered the Y.M.C.A. He gave a short address to the Koreans, in which he made no reference to politics. Mr. Yi Sang-chai, Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. and former Secretary to the Korean Legation at Washington, was replying when the police entered the building, took Mr. Hersman, Mr. Yi and the other persons on the platform into the lobby and ordered other foreigners to leave the building, saying:

"Our business is with Koreans only."

Mr. Hersman attempted explanations but they were unheeded. He refused to leave the building until the Koreans were released.

Mr. R. S. Miller, the United States Consul-General, arrived and intervened with the result that the police finally agreed to release the Koreans and to let the matter of an unlicensed meeting drop. It is rumored that one Korean was injured.

Mr. Hersman's attention was drawn by the foreigners present to a policeman who was kicking a Korean.

The majority of the Congressional Party were attending a reception, given by the Governor-General, when the incident occurred.

POLICE LINE STREETS

This morning the party went for a motor-drive in the city through lanes of police. The populace was not permitted along the route, except in doorways and side-streets.

At noon a banquet was given in honor of the Congressmen at the Chosen Hotel, at which the International Friendly Society were the hosts. The usual complimentary speeches were exchanged.

Since the arrival of the Congressional party, there has been an air of tension in the city. The Koreans are apparently expecting something but the streets are quiet with the Korean stores closed as a sign of protest. The party is being constantly guarded against untoward incidents.

MANY RUMORS AFFOAT

There are constant rumors of bomb attempts and arrests with whispered warnings and the Congressmen are being overwhelmed with opposing arguments on the political situation but the major-

Two To Die For Murder Of Singing Girl Beauty

ed inducement would operate to vitiate the validity and admissibility of the confession and we submit that in Sergeant Wang's testimony admitting that he told the accused: 'We will save the living and leave the dead' together with his wriggling into the confidence of the accused, there exists such implied inducement."

Mr. Lemiere, who was retained in the eleventh hour shortly before noon yesterday when it was announced that Mr. Haskell had definitely withdrawn as counsel for the second accused, also made a supreme effort to save his client, who was the only witness called for the defense. He admitted being in the motor car when the girl was dragged into the field by the first accused and a man named Fong. He admitted having watched the body of the girl in the field during the night, but he denied have received any portion of the spoils of the robbery or had any previous knowledge of the murder before the crime was committed.

Other attorneys interested in the case were Dr. J. O. Fisher, watching the case on behalf of the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, Mr. Ponson Chu, representing the mother of the victim and Mr. A. Krisel, counsel for the witness Ch Lau-ng, alias Chu Tse-chai, son of Chu Pao-san, the retired chairman of the Chamber of Commerce.

Both accused were in apparently good state of health in spite of the report that the first was suffering from cancer. When led to the dock in the morning, both stood erect. But as the second accused testified against the first in the afternoon, the latter sank and had to be helped into a nearby chair.

GIRL'S FATHER WITNESS

The morning session began with the testimony of the murdered girl's father for the prosecution. Wang Chang-fa stated that the daughter was a pretty girl, fond of jewelery. He last saw her at about 4 p.m. on the 23rd of the 4th moon. When the body was found in Siccawei, he said the police took him to the scene and he recognised the body as that of her daughter.

Cross-examined by Mr. Kentwell, witness said he recognised her features distinctly. Inside the hair there was a hair-pin which was diamond set. The diamond was taken off but the stud still remained. The clothing she wore was exactly the same as on the day when she left her house.

Detective Sergeant Quayle was then called. Mr. Kentwell's objection of the presence of the police officer after the Court had allowed the exclusion of witnesses was overruled.

TELLS OF CONFESSIONS

Sergeant Quayle said that first prisoner was brought to his station on the morning of the 9th at about 7 o'clock. Accused admitted having the diamond in his possession. On the following day he was formally charged before the Court and later in the day the second accused was arrested in Chapei with the assistance of the first accused and Detective Sergeant Wang.

On his return, witness asked Yen, the first accused, whether he cared to make a statement. On the following day, he was again asked to make a statement. But before he made the statement, he was warned that the statement would be used against him in Court. Witness made that perfectly clear to prisoner who said he wanted to make a statement.

The Assessor—What was his state of mind at the time? A—Normal.

That was in the afternoon and in the evening, before he commenced to write the statement, witness again warned him. He said he wished to write the statement himself and then proceeded to do so. When witness warned prisoner D.-S. Knight was present. Prisoner finished the statement the following morning. He spoke English very well.

Mr. Faithfull—On that evidence I will hand up the statement.

Mr. Kentwell—I object to its admission. In the interests of justice it ought not to be admitted. I will prove conclusively it should not be admitted.

The Assessor—We will leave it over for the present.

GIVES WARNING

D.-S. Quayle then said he warned the second accused similarly before he wrote his statement. There was no intimidation either mental or physical used against either of the prisoners.

Mr. Kentwell cross-examined at length. Absolutely no intimidation was used. No inducement was offered or hope or favor held out. Witness himself told accused he would not be handed over to the Chinese authorities but not before the statement was made. Accused had asked him that question about six times a day.

Q.—You gave him a little comfort.

A.—Yes.

Q.—So that he would make a more intelligent statement.

A.—No. That was after the statement had been made.

Prisoner had a certain amount of mental agony which it was up to the police to alleviate. Prisoner spoke to him in English, asking if he would be sent to the Arsenal. Witness did not hear any statement about "saving the living and leaving the dead." A fresh warning was not given accused when he resumed his statement on the second day. Witness considered it to be part of the same statement.

Argument was then heard as to the admissibility of the statement, Mr. Faithfull stating that in every case in which he had appeared such statements had been admitted.

Mr. Kentwell argued at length, quoting from British legal authorities.

Mr. Blackburn in giving the Court's ruling that the confession be admitted, said the whole point was whether any inducement handed out was such as to make any confession untrue, or whether it continued to operate at the moment of the confession. The Court did not believe any such inducement was held out as to make the statement an untrue one.

The statement and translation, was then handed in.

Mr. Blackburn, said that, from it, first accused intimated that he did not intend to kill the girl. He left her in the custody of the second accused and a third man not yet in custody. That took them to the statement of the second accused.

This also was handed up and the Court then adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session was resumed with the evidence of the second accused, Ng Tsung-fong, alias Ng Ah-tsung, a tea-dealer. After denying all the charges made against him, he said that he had been asked by Yen Jui-sing to participate in a robbery. He only remained in the motor car while Yen dragged the dead girl out of the car and Fong assisted him.

Witness was told to light the light of the car if anybody approached the scene, he testified. They remained in the field for more than an hour, he said.

Cross-examined by Mr. Faithfull, witness admitted that the confession made to the police was made voluntarily, but he was not concerned in the murder or robbery nor was he given any portion of the proceeds of the robbery. He was promised $100 for his assistance, but he never received the money.

At this juncture, the first accused once more showed signs of weakness and leaned helplessly against the dock.

Continuing, witness said he did not see any bottle of chloroform in Yen's hand. He went into the field to see whether the girl was dead or alive. He stayed in the field till daybreak on the following morning. He was only 10 feet from the corpse. After a rest, he went to a hospital to have his eyes attended to.

Mr. Faithfull then addressed the Court to great length. He asserted that there was no doubt that the first accused was the prime mover in the crime, but said that did not relieve the second prisoner of any liability. They acted in concert and according to the Chinese Provisional Criminal Code, two or more persons acting in concert for the purpose of robbery are liable to be punished by death.

Counsel submitted that the case was a clear case of murder and robbery and that the Court could not but conclude that both wilfully committed murder and robbery of the unfortunate girl. The statement made by the first accused was more than seven pages of type-written sheets and was made without threat.

The second accused, counsel added, wrote spontaneously like the first accused. There was no mistakes in writing. His confession confirmed that of the first accused and in a great measure amplified it.

PLEA OF COUNSEL

Dr. Mei pleaded that it was solemn business to try a man for his life and the responsibility on his colleague, Mr. Kentwell and himself was great in defending the first accused.

"Against the prejudice of the press, the public and the views of the police in fastening the offence on this man, we have sought to assure the Court that this offence was not committed by our client," said Dr. Mei in part. He then proceeded to argue on the questions of jurisdiction, of confession and of corpus delicti. He maintained that the prosecution had not proved its case beyond a reasonable amount of doubt. There was no direct evidence. The circumstancial evidence adduced was insufficient to warrant a conviction.

On the question of jurisdiction, Dr. Mei submitted that at the opening session of the trial, the Court assumed jurisdiction after the prosecution had submitted that there was a continuity of offense. This, counsel submitted, was a fallacy and maintained that the Court still had no jurisdiction.

Dr. Mei then tried to point out how each of the pieces of evidence given by Detective Sergeant Quayle, the chauffeur and Chu Pao-san's son could be disregarded. Quayle testified as to his arrest. The chauffeur gave evidence on his borrowing the car while Chu did not even see the girl and the accused riding together.

The Chinese detective's allegation that accused had confessed was the result of inducement. The officer undertook to "save the living and leave the dead." He provided prisoner with food and drink. This was conclusive evidence, counsel maintained, that he had wriggled into the confidence of the accused to get the confession.

As to the warning of the accused beforehand, whether it is required in Chinese law or not, it is common law and common sense that the accused should be warned beforehand.

Counsel questioned the veracity of the detective and pointed out the conflicting testimony he had given as to the warning. Moreover, the evidence of the question between detective and Quayle was again conflicting, so counsel submitted that the evidence was not reliable.

"In spite of the dark cloud hanging over the first accused," Dr. Mei concluded," we are confident that the circumstantial evidence adduced is not sufficient to convict. It is the unshifting responsibility of the prosecution to prove that he is guilty and it is not the burden for counsel for the defense to prove otherwise. We rest in firm confidence that this Court, holding the scale of justice evenly, will acquit him."

Below is a translation of the statement made by the first accused at the Louza Police station, which was admitted as evidence by the court after vigorous opposition from Counsel for the defense:

My name is Yen Jui-sung. My ancestors' native place was Tangshien in Honan. I am 26 years of age and was born in Shanghai. I entered the Aurora University when I was 16 years old and left it when I was 20. I joined the engineering course of the Training School of the Ministry of Communications in Peking and returned to Shanghai when I was 21. I was then employed in the Liang Tsi Company for eight months, after which I left for Hongkong. I stayed there for 6 months and then returned to Shanghai. I was employed as a translator by a mining engineer, Chung Dah-ming of the France Chinese Mining Company for about 10 months and then became a clerk in the comprador's office of the French Tramway Company. I left that position in the first month of this year and am since out of employment.

ON GOOD TERMS WITH GIRL

The cause of the case is that commencing in the 8th month of last year I frequented the house of a sing song girl named Dee Hung Kwei. I was on good terms with her. After I had left employment this year I still was a visitor in her place.

On the 19th of the 4th moon I calculated the accounts which I should pay at the Dragon Boat Festival. I found that I should pay over $600. I tried to borrow money for the settlement of such accounts but without result. I then borrowed a diamond ring from the girl and pawned it for $600. I went to the Kiangwan races to gamble in the hope of winning some money in order to enable myself to clear my accounts. Instead of winning any money I lost the $600. Dee Hung Kwei is a purchased girl and her mistress did not know that I borrowed the ring from her. I did not go to her house subsequent to 19th. On the 22nd she found me in a brothal at Wei Loh Lee and insisted on me returning her the ring. I promised to do so in a day or two. I then conceived the idea of stealing Lien Ying's property to settle the matter with her.

I had no connection with Lien Ying before. When a festival is approaching those who seek pleasure like to call sing song girls as a trial. I think that the first time I called Lien Ying was in the Great Eastern Hotel. At that time I heard Lien Ying sing in the hall. I have a friend named King with whom I became acquianted through dining with him. This friend called Lien Ying on many occasions. I heard Lien Ying sing very well and I therefore called her for a trial by falsely using the surname of King.

Since I had the intention, on the 22nd I invited several friends to play dominoes at Lien Ying's house and also made an appointment with her to play poker on my behalf at Siao Ling Dai Ngoh's house in Fuh Yue Lee alleyway the following day. On the same night I said to the 5th son of Chu that I got some important business to do. I asked him to lend me his motor car on the afternoon of the following day and he consented to my request.

BOUGHT CHLOROFORM

On the morning of the 23rd I went to the King Sing Dispensary and bought a bottle of chloroform. I then went to the Weng Tub Chong tea leaf shop on Paoshan Road, Chapei, to see Wu Tsung-tong who accompanied me to Hongkong before. I met him and we went together on the road in a southerly direction. I told him my intention and asked him for assistance. He agreed and also promised to invite a friend named Fong who was employed in the teashop leaf shop and to meet at the Loong Yuen tea house at the South Defense Creek bridge at 3 p.m.

At 1:30 p.m. I went to Chu Lau-ng's place (Chu Pao-san's son). At 3 p.m. I borrowed a motor car in which I went to Sing Kong Lee, Burkill Road and to Yih Ping Shang Restaurant where I gave the chauffeur $1 and 4 or 5 food money notes. I told him to get shaved and take a bath. This was done in order to send him away. After the chauffeur had gone I drove the car to the Loong Yuen tea house. Wu and Fong were there already. I told them to wait in the tea house opposite the Foh Yue Lee alleyway. I went to Siao Ling Dae Nyoh's house, and said that my friend had made an appointment with me to play poker there. I then wrote a paper of call for Lien Ying by using the surname of King. This was about 4 p.m.

VICTIM WAS ASLEEP

Half an hour later Lien Ying did not turn up and I went to her house where I found her still asleep. I told her to hurry up, saying that my friends had nearly all come. I told her to come immediately. I returned to the Yih Ping Shang and took some food. Meantime the chauffeur had returned. I then went with the chauffeur to Foh Yue Lee, where I told him that a servant would accompany me and that as the car was too small to accommodate him (chauffeur) he should not go with me, but wait for me at Yih Ping Shang Hotel at 7 p.m.

I told Ah Tsung, the second accused, to get on and watch the car. I told the chauffeur to go. I then went to Siao Ling Dae Nyoh's house. This was about 5:30 p.m. I waited there until 6:30 p.m. when Lien Ying came shortly afterwards I said to her that my friends had not come and we had better have a motor ride. At first she disagreed but owing to my repeated requests she consented. I left Siao Ling Dae Nyoh's house with Lien Ying and we got on the car. Wu and Fong were sitting on the back side of the vehicle. The car travelled along the Thibet Road in northerly direction and turned along the Bubbling Well Road, Jessfield Road, Poh Sing Ching and Hung Jao where we turned towards the east. When we came near to the Nanyang College we turned towards the west and passed the second Hung Jao Bridge. Meantime it became dark.

BEGINS CRIME

I stopped the car and alighted to light the lamp. Before doing so I poured chloroform on to a piece of cotton and handed it to Ah Tsung when I was lighting the lamp. Fong dragged Lien Ying down from the car to a wheat field and applied chloroform to her. Meantime I saw a countryman coming from east to west about 30 steps from the car. I waited until he came near the car and I took him on to the car and drove towards west. I stopped at the third Hung Jao Bridge and told the countryman to alight. I then drove back towards the east. Shortly afterwards I saw Wu and Fong come east to west. I stopped the car and told them to get on to it. I was of opinion that the place where Lien Ying was lying unconscious was too near to the road and told them to remove Lien Ying to the car. I drove towards the east.

GOT SPOILS

Meantime Fong handed to Ah Tsung a large diamond ring, a pearl neck lace, a diamond earring, a brooch and a wrist watch and the latter handed them to me. When I was taking the things the car ran into a tree through slight carelessness. The car stopped and I told the two men to remove Lien Ying to a low field. I made an appointment with them that I would come back in the car to take them after 12 midnight. I then drove alone back to Ying Ping Shang and handed the car to the chauffeur. I told him to drive to the Sincere Company after 12 m.n. and wait there for us. I entered the Yih Ping Shang and noticed it was 8:5( p.m. I went to a room and saw several invitation cards on the table. I remember where the cards were. I immediately went to the different places and found that the guests were all gone.

WIFE PAWNED JEWELS

I returned home and told my wife to have the brooch and the diamond earring pawned. These were pawned for $50. At 11 p.m. I went to Dee Hung Kwei's house and at 12 m.n. I falsely said that I had an appointment with the 5th son of Chu Pao-san to go together to Dee Hung Kwei's house in connection with the question of diamond ring. Thinking that I was telling a lie in order to leave her house Dee Hung Kwei insisted on going with me. I went with her in a northerly direction to the Sincere Co. where I found that the car had not arrived. We then went to Chun Tien Zih Club and at 1 a.m. all the members dispersed and we went to the Sincere Co. and found that the car was still not there. I then told Dee Hung Kwei return home first but she did not agree. I was obliged to hire a car from a Yu Lee Garage and we drove to Jessfield and Hung Jao and back to Sincere Co. where the 5th son of Chu's chauffeur got on the car and told him to drive to Kiu An Lee alleyway and send Dee Hung Kwei home.

GOT CHU'S CAR

I and Chu's chauffeur drove to St. Catherine's Bridge where I told him to bring out Chu's car. I drove the car myself to Hung Jao, and told the chauffeur to drive the car to Yu Lee to its Garage and wait there. I went to Hung Jao but could not find the two men. I returned to the Yu Lee Garage. This was 4:15 a.m. I handed the car over to Chu's chauffeur and gave him $30 in notes because the car collided with a tree and wheels were damaged and should be repaired.

I then went to Dee Hung Kwei's house and slept there until 8 a.m. when I got up and left. This was the morning of 24th. I went to the Yu Chang pawnshop in Hankow Road and offered to exchange Lien Ying's diamond ring for that of Dee Hung Kwei's. The pawn broker refused to accept the offer because the value of ring which I offered to exchange cannot meet with the one already in pawn. Being unable to do anything I returned home and told my wife to take the pearl neck lace to have it pawned for $100, but this was still insufficient because the pawn broker only agreed to accept Lien Ying's diamond ring for $400. There was still $100 short for the redemption of Dee Hung Kwei's diamond ring. I then went to her house. This was 1 p.m. I asked her to go with me to Chu's 5th son's place with the intention of borrowing $100 from him by giving the loan of her diamond ring as a reason.

CALLED ON CHU

At 3 p.m. we went to Chu's 5th son's house. When we arrived there Lien Ying's case had become known. Chu's 5th son compelled me and Dee Hung Kwei to take a motor car with him to Lien Ying's house. I was frightened and jumped down from the car on the way and fled into the premises of the Pah Tu & Co. At night I went to find Wu and Fong and asked them whether Lien Ying was alive or dead. They replied they did not know. I was very anxious because if Lien Ying was dead I was guilty of murder and robbery. I told them that they should go to that place the following day and that if Lien Ying was dead they should have her body buried. I returned home. Meantime my wife had already received information about Lien Ying's case. When I returned home she blame me for having done the affair and was afraid that, if Lien Ying could not make up after being chlorotormed, there would be a case of murder, also that if she woke and met with bad men there would be danger of losing her life.

I became extremely frightened, and did not what to do.

On the morning of the 25th I went to take refuge in the French Mining engineer Chun Dan-ming's house. I intended to surrender to the Police but I dare not do so fearing that Lien Ying was dead. At night I called upon Wu and Fong and found that they had not gone to Hung Jao. Being urged by my mother and wife I left Shanghai on the early morning of the 26th for Dzo San. I arrived at Yang Siang on the afternoon of the 27th and took refuge in my father-in-law's house.

On the 2nd of the 5th month I read a copy of newspaper and learned that Lien Ying was dead. On the 3rd I again saw in the newspaper that Lien Ying was strangled to death with a rope. This I doubted very much because I did not take a rope with me.

WAS SHADOWED

On the 6th my mother came and told me to leave for some other place. On the morning of the 7th I went to Dzo San again and on the afternoon of the 8th some persons came to arrest me. Therefore I left Dzo San on that day and hid myself in the vicinity of Yang Siang Ching.

RETURNS TO SHANGHAI

On the 18th I came back to Shanghai and on the 24th I took the s.s. Yingchow of Butterfield & Swire to go to Tsingtau. I arrived at Tsingtao on the 26th, at Tsinanfu on the 27th, and Hsuchowfu on the 29th. Meantime I had spent all my money and I slept at the Railway Station at night. There I was caught by the Railway Police and taken to the Yamen of the Defense Commissioner. I was detained in the Dong San Hsien cells and was afterwards brought to Shanghai.

I have handed the diamond ring to C. D. S. Wang Chen-fu but I had lost the gold watch and my own spectacles when I ran away by water at Yang Siang Ching and therefore I cannot produce them.

"KILLED BY MISTAKE"

The above is true statement and is made myself, but I had no intention of killing Lien Ying. She was killed by mistake. I am a religious man and according to conscience I have nothing to complain of if I am put to death. I ask the Court to impose heavy punishment upon me according to law.

ity of them continue to discredit the reports of danger.

This morning four Koreans were arrested, it is stated, as the result of a confession, obtained on Monday from a Korean from Shanghai, who is now under arrest.

It is alleged that the latter confessed that seven of them left Shanghai for Seoul with orders from the Provisional government to assassinate prominent government officials. Mauser revolvers are said to have been seized by the police. The police say that this gives the lie of the recent denial issued by the Provisional government in connection with the alleged plots here.

POLICE EXPLAIN

The Director of Police, explaining the unusual activities of the police, said that it was hoped to receive the Americans in an open and democratic way but unfortunately rumors, which it was impossible to disregard but which it was prayed were groundless, threatened to materialise into force, making the protection of the visitors an urgent necessity. All law abiding citizens were chagrined to think that such protection to the visitors was necessary but the authorities had sufficient proof that guards were indispensable. "It is hoped," he continued, that the Americans will not think ill of what has been done for their personal safety."

Prominent Japanese, Americans, Koreans and Chinese met Mr. Ford of the Congressional Party today and agreed to organise a branch of the Pan-Pacific Union. Mr. Miller, the Consul-General, agreed to help in the organisation of the branch.

national rights, whether in Russia or Poland, ought to teach wisdom to aggressors. The world, East and West, is crying for peace, but it can only be obtained on the basis of full recognition of the liberties of nations.

CIVILISATION MENACED

"The British and Italian Governments are alarmed at the indefinite prolongation of the present state of conflict among nations. To the peoples engaged, these antagonisms can bring nothing but ever-increasing misery, to the peoples of the World at large they involve continued unrest. Until these conflicts cease, the betterment of agriculture and industry and the interchange of commodities of different lands on which the economic life of nations depends, cannot come into full operation. Scarcity and high prices, with their attendant privations and perils, are the inevitable result. Civilisation itself, shaken and weakened by five years of incessant warfare, is menaced by the prospect.

"The British and Italian Governments are, therefore, united in urging that every effort should be made to bring to a conclusion the existing conditions of strife between nations."

Another communique states:

"Mr. Lloyd George and Signor Giolitti have made proposals to the French government for Allied action for the purpose of securing Poland full rights under the Treaty of Versailles to the free use and unrestricted service of the port of Danzig and its communications."

FRENCH PRESS COMMENT

Paris, August 25.—The French press comments favorably on the result of the interview at Lucerne between Mr. Lloyd George and Signor Giolitti, the Italian Premier, a result which, the newspapers emphasise, proves that the British and Italian Governments intend henceforth to act with France, whose point of view has been thoroughly justified by events.

The general opinion of the press is that the two Premiers must have realised that the Soviet terms to Poland were unacceptable and France rejoices to see that her British and Italian Allies have accepted her point of view.

The statement, issued by Mr. Lloyd George and Signor Giolitti, it is declared, will put an end to the hopes which the Prussian and Russian Soviet Governments had placed in disagreement amongst the great Western Powers.

M. Millerand will meet Signor Giolitti at Aix-les-Bains about the middle of September and will afterwards confer with Mr. Lloyd George.

the other parties should compel them.

The Japanese Command had not considered the question of the seat of the Far Eastern Government, nevertheless the question was important in view of the attitude which the Government would adopt towards Soviet Russia and the neighboring countries. General Oi expressed the opinion that Vladivostok, having started the movement, should have preference.

PRIAMUR SITUATION

Regarding Habarovsk and Grodekovo, General Oi said that the Japanese Command would fulfil the agreement of April 5, not permitting armed incidents, and advised that the Russian militia should be chosen from the better classes and that doubtful characters should be dismissed.

General Oi was non-committal with regard to General Semenoff's and General Kappell's troops being transferred to the Priamur district. He said that the Japanese Command, according to agreement, would disarm these troops if they came within the railway radius; nevertheless, should these troops come to an arrangement with the Priamur authorities and jointly with them request the Japanese Command for permission, to enter the Priamur, armed, the Japanese Command would probably give its consent.

MOONLIT RIVER CALLS AMERICANS OUT FOR PICNIC

Colony Will Have Feast And Frolic Saturday At Shanghai College

After enjoying the delights of old fashioned fried chicken, cooked like it is below Mason-Dixon, real American white-bread made out of genuine wheat flour, coffee the aroma of which alone will be sufficient to delight the palate of the sad-eyed hotel inmate, real pies and cakes n' everything that only an American woman who has packed a picnic lunch basket can imagine and provide for—then will come the songs and the stories and lazy contentment on the beautiful lawn. And the picnickers will watch the fantastic shadows and shapes on the Whangpoo as it is transformed into a river of silver by the brilliant moonlight.

This is the informal program of a wholly informal picnic that is being planned by members of the American Song Service for the American colony in Shanghai.

It is to be next Saturday afternoon and evening, supper being served promptly at 6:30 o'clock. And it will be on the campus at Shanghai College, The Point.

Every American is invited and those who take baskets are urged to invite as many guests as their preparations warrant. A lot of hotel dwellers, it is predicted, will be seeking the good graces of Shanghai's American matrons today.

FUKIEN GENTRY SEEK NEUTRALITY IN CHINA WAR

Peking Residents From Scene Of Conflict Seek To Stop Fighting

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 26.—General Li Shun, in his capacity of Chief Northern Peace Delegate, has informed the government that he has notified Tsen Chun-hsuan General Lu Yun-ting and Admiral Lin Pao-yi that there is no truth in the first report, received by the government, to the effect that General Li Hou-chi was co-operating with General Chen Chiung-ming and asking the recipients to withdraw their expedition from Fukien.

The government has again warned General Li Hou-chi to observe the strictest neutrality. General Wang Yun-chuan, commanding the Fengtien troops in Fukien, has promised the government to maintain order in Fukien except in the region where fighting is in progress.

As a result of several meetings the Fukien gentry in Peking have resolved to request the government to remove General Li Hou-chi and to bring very strong pressure to bear to suppress the fighting with a view to making Fukien neutral territory until general peace has been restored.

FIREMEN CHECK HOT BLAZE IN TOBACCO PLANT

Factory And Dwellings Are Saved After Fast Fight By Firemen

A fire that threatened considerable damage in the vicinity of Sungkeipang and East Seward Roads was checked last evening by the fast work of the local fire department.

First call for the firemen came into the Hongkew Station at 6.29. Station Master Thompson and his men responded with speed and found one of two buildings used as a factory by the China Cigarette Company, ablaze in the upper story.

The fire was spreading rapidly and broke through to the second building used by the cigarette company and threatened a row of houses near by.

A section of General was called out but was not required for long as the flames were soon well in hand.

A quantity of tobacco on the ground floor was ignited but by rolling the flames they were got under control after a stiff tussle.

The flames originated near the top of a stairway.

A quantity of cigarettes were consumed but the machinery was saved from severe damage by the act of the firemen who covered it as protection against water and flames.

The place was insured.

Congressmen Send Thanks For Hospitable Welcome

Letters expressing great appreciation of the warm hospitality that was extended by the Chinese of Shanghai to the visiting party of American Congressmen have been received by Mr. David Z. T. Yui, who was Chairman of the twenty-one Chinese organisations that took charge of the reception accorded to the legislators on their arrival here.

The two letters are as follows:

"Nanking, August 11, 1920.

"Mr. David Z. T. Yui, Chairman, Twenty-One Representative Chinese Organisations.

"Words can hardly express the gratitude of the members of the Congressional Party for the enthusiastic welcome and delightful reception given to them by the Twenty-One Representative Chinese Organisations, and the Chinese community generally, during their brief sojourn in Shanghai.

"We hoped before leaving Shanghai to be able to express to the representatives of these different organisations in a personal way the gratitude of the members of our party for the reception accorded them there, but our time was so short that we were unable to do this.

"Will you kindly convey to your Committee, Dr. C. T. Wang, Mr. Y. M. Chien, Dr. T. H. Lee and Mr. C. P. Yin, and the others who represented the various organisations, the grateful appreciation of the members of the Congressional Party for the reception which they received at Shanghai, which was a striking manifestation of the warmth of friendship of the Chinese people toward America.

"Very cordially yours,
"Jno. N. Small.
"For The Congressional Party."

The other letter follows.

"Tsinanfu, August 13, 1920.

"Dear Dr. Yui:

"I am requested by the ladies of the Congressional Party to extend to you their hearty thanks for the thirty-one baskets of flowers and the six bouquets, which were addressed to them individually, and delivered, part of them on the tender for those who returned on the Great Northern, and the remainder to those who continued their trip through China.

"These flowers serve as a beautiful and sweet testimonial of the kindly sentiments of the Chinese people toward not only the ladies of the party but to the American ladies generally.

"Very cordially yours,
"John H. Small.

ANOTHER PRECIOUS LITTLE LIFE SAVED

How Baby's Own Tablets Safeguard The Children Against Summer Ills.

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time, and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours' illness.

The mother who keeps Babay's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, in the house feels safe. The occasional use of these Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, and if sickness comes suddenly they help bring the little one through. Mrs. John N. Pringle, Forest Falls, Ontario, Canada, writes:—"I think I can thank Baby's Own Tablets for my baby's life. He was badly constipated, but after giving him the Tablets they relieved him almost at once. I also find them good when he is at all restless and I cannot say too much in their favour."

Baby's Own Tablets make teething easy, are a positively harmless remedy for simple fever, indigestion, colic, constipation, diarrhoea and worms. Obtainable from druggists, also, post free, 60 cents the vial, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

CLYDE SHIPYARDS TIED UP BY STRIKE AGAINST HIGH RENT

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 23.—The great Clyde industries are practically at a standstill today as a result of a novel 24 hours' strike against high rents.

In one shipyard, employing 7,000 men, only 350 turned out and at other large yards the stoppage was complete. A hundred thousand men are idle in Glasgow and 300,000 throughout Scotland.

The tramway service in Glasgow has been suspended and thousands had to walk to business. Processions marched through the streets with banners, declaring that higher rents would not be paid. No disorders occurred.

MEN who have the right kind of material in them will assert their personality and rise in spite of a thousand adverse circumstances. You cannot keep them down. Every obstacle seems only to add to their ability to get on. So with WIDLER'S MUSK, it's the MUSK which will eventually predominate. Forget all the other trade names by which Musk is known, but remember WIDLER'S MUSK. Send Chinese Postal money orders for $300 to MR. ELLY WIDLER, TA TSING-LU, SZECHUEN PROVINCE, and he will mail you a sample of one pound of WIDLER'S MUSK. Tel. Widler-Tatsienlu. Bentleys Code.

Dear Sir,

Due to the fact that we are FAIL TO MAKE PROFIT by using an engine, which by its SLOWNESS in work, EXPENSIVE in charges and also DIRTY and NOISY. The engine we are now using is 12 H.P. Having learned that an ELECTRIC MOTOR is a HASTY and ENERGETIC worker, it works QUIETLY, expends ECONOMICALLY, locates only a SMALL SPACE, and is EASY TO OPERATE. By the above several GOODNESS we would like to make a change and it might satisfy us when taking into use. Hope you will send us one for our benefit at your earliest convenience.

Very truly yours,

FIFTEENTH INFANTRY SCORES TWO IN NINTH INNING AND TIES UP CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Tientsin Sluggers Stage Smashing Rally In Final Frame—Contest Called Due To Darkness Will Be Played On Saturday

Today's Game: Navy vs. 15th Infantry, 4.30 p.m.

By Viola Verclaire

The game yesterday between Shanghai and the 15th Infantry of Tientsin, which was to have decided the championship of the series, ended in a tie game of nine innings, and on account of darkness, a decision was reached to play off the tie in a deciding game on Saturday at 2:15 p.m.

Shanghai scored two runs in the first inning on a hit by Hopkins, Bills hit by pitched ball, Wilhoit and Glauque getting on on fielders choice and two errors made by Gibbens.

No further score was made and the game went along smoothly until the ninth inning, when the Infantry scored two runs on two three baggers made by Cummings and Gibbens and a hit to right by Mahan.

Today, at 4:30 p.m., the Navy will battle with the Infantry. These two teams have put up some dandy good ball, at their last meeting the score being 1 to 0, and a good crowd is expected out to cheer for them.

On Saturday the Shanghai Club will play a double header—first game at 2:15 p.m. will decide Thursday's tie game and the second game Shanghai will play the Navy.

"Skipper" Bills, whose brilliant play at short for Shanghai was one of the features of yesterday's game.

Wilhoit Dug Them Out Of The Ground

Just Dope

Ditto, the Infantry's left fielder injured his leg sliding into Glauque in the second inning and had to leave the game.

Bills and Ladd make a fine combination around short and second base. Bills received the applause of the grandstand throughout the afternoon for his nifty fielding of several hot grounders.

Claire pitched a beautiful game and barring that fatal ninth inning, had the Infantry guessing at all times. The Infantry got three of their five hits in the last inning.

Hopkins, Shanghai's right fielder was the batting star of the day, turning in a record of two hits.

The Rifleman's Ten Commandments

1. Adjust sling high.
2. Position 45 degrees.
3. Rifle hard on shoulder.
4. Freeze face to stock.
5. Take command of trigger.
6. Align sights.
7. Hold breath.
8. Last focus on bull.
9. Final trigger squeeze.
10. Call Shot.

BY W. H. RICHARD

(Best Rifle Shot in United States)

The first commandment has reference to the sling strap with which all military type of rifles, both .22 cal. and .30 cal., are equipped and is used as an aid to steady the piece in aiming. It is thoroughly practical and is used by all the better class of shots both in target and service shooting. The sling should be so adjusted so that the loop hangs from the upper swivel to about under the comb of the stock just back of the grip. The arm should then be placed through the coop up under the arm pit; or as high on the arm as it is possible to keep it. A button or hook sewed on the shooting coat will assist in keeping the sling in place and from slipping down on the arm. In placing the left arm in the loop, first give it a quarter turn to left so that the strap will lie flat against the back of the hand. Place the left hand on the rifle stock just back of the upper sling swivel, or as far outward as it will go. Now, when you lie prone, taking commandment No. 2, your left elbow will be well under the rifle and with the sling tension, will form sort of a fulcrum over which the rifle will be held in place.

No. 3. Rifle hard on shoulder, which means that the butt plate is put in position on the right shoulder at the junction of the arm and shoulder. The writer has never found it necessary to jam the rifle butt "hard" against the shoulder or arms, but just firm enough to hold it in place when the weight of the head is laid on the comb of the stock. Some instructors cause the pupil to jam the butt against the shoulder so hard that the flesh blackens from the operation without firing a shot. This is uncalled for and unnecessary.

No. 4. Freeze face to stock simply means lay the weight of the head on the stock so that this weight helps to bind the rifle in place, throwing the weight forward and increasing the tension on the sling about the arm. The eye should be in a natural alignment with the sights.

No. 5. Military rifles have a preliminary takeup of the trigger before the final pull off as an added factor of safety against premature or accidental discharge, and to "take command" of trigger means to take up this preliminary pull.

No. 6 Sight alignment is partially explained in the paragraph on weighting the stock with the head and care should be taken that one does not throw the face too far forward, causing the eye to look out close under the eyebrow. Lay the face flat against the stock so that you will look squarely out of the eye or as nearly naturally straight forward as possible.

No. 7. When your sights are aligned on the target, take a full breath and you will notice, if you have the position correct, that the muzzle or front sight will depress until it tips below the mark. Thus, by exhaling a part of the breath it will raise until it comes in line, after which the breath should be held until the shot is fired.

No. 8. Last focus on Bull means that while the breath is held for the final squeeze you are checking up your aim to be certain that it is as nearly correct as possible.

THE CAUSE OF ALIBIS

No. 9. The final trigger squeeze is a term over which there is much argument among the most expert shots as to whether or not it is a correct term. Some instructors claim that the final let off is a pull, others claim the term cannot be defined as the rifle just naturally cracks when the proper alignment is made without conscious effort. The effort is there but whether it is a pull or a squeeze of the trigger is immaterial so long as the sight alignment is not deranged. It might be said here that the most important part of the training is learning to shoot the rifle. More wild shots are occasioned and more perfectly good rifles and ammunition are condemned through faulty trigger let off than any other defect. The disease is commonly known as "flinching" and in its most virulent form as "buck fever." When you have mastered trigger squeese, pull, or whatever your pet name may be for the operation, you have become an expert shot and in a fair way to win any event in which you may shoot.

No. 10. Calling the shot is just telling the world where you think the shot you have just fired should hit the target. If it is where you expect it to be, you are learning to shoot. If not, one usually blames the rifle or ammunition, or both. The real trouble, or at least ninety-eight percent of the trouble reverts back to the ninth commandment.

PARACHUTE JUMP RECORD BROKEN

Aero Squadron Veteran Leaps From Altitude Of 20,000 Feet

Lieut. John H. Wilson of the 96th Aero Squadron, Kelly Field, Texas, leaped from a De Haviland B at an altitude of approximately 20,000 feet, and 17 minutes thereafter landed in a diminutive turnip patch the holder of the world's record for parachute jumping. A nervy little Frenchman once took a 14,000 foot trip through the ozone in a straight southerly direction, and an American floated 8,000 feet with the aid of an enlarged umbrella. These two achievements were the high points in parachute jumping previous to 4 p.m. June 7 1920, at Kelly Field.

Lieut. Delmar Dunton, engineer officer of the First Day Bombardment Group, was assigned as pilot of the plane, and June 7 selected as the day. Lieut. Wilson spent most of June 7 folding his parachutes, and at four o'clock the party took off. It may be explained here that it is customary to wear two parachutes in case of accident. It was particularly necessary in Lieut. Wilson's case, because there was no guarantee that it would not take so long to come down that one would wear out.

At the end of an hour the altimeters showed a little over 20,000 feet. Later the official recording barographs showed 19,861 feet. A few feet, more or less, mean little in a jump from that height.

Lieut. Wilson says that the first few thousand feet it was difficult to discern any downward motion. He seemed to be hanging in the atmosphere motionless. A minute or so later, however, there was a lot of action. He dropped into a highly scrambled section of the earthly ether which was being disturbed by a northern gale. Wilson, who is not too big or heavy, was flopped around with entire disregard for his personal comfort. In fact, his stomach objected seriously. Due to his physical condition he is not prepared to say that he made a new loop record, but he thinks he did. The wind tossed him and his frail chute hither and yon, thither and thence, not to mention between and thereabouts. He was over, under and parallel with his canvas life saver at various periods.

As he dropped out of this stormy slice of air he observed that he was drifting farther and farther from the field, so he started to pick out a suitable spot whereon to light. He spied a small field and side slipped his chute toward it. Three hundred feet from the ground he pulled his second chute to break his fall and a few seconds later he lit gracefully in a turnip patch. Residents from miles away who had spied him in the air rushed to congratulate him.

Lieut. Wilson successfully accomplished a nervy experiment and conclusively established the fact that a chute will open in the rarified atmosphere up above. If is given to few to be the holder of a world's record, and now Lt. Wilson can die happy.

Inchape Gets Record Price

Aqueduct, N. Y., July 14.—The highest price ever paid for a 2 year old in this country was recorded here yesterday when Samuel C. Hildreth obtained Inchape, a chestnut colt by Friar-Rock-Rose of Gold for $150,000 and $10,000 for services, a total of $160,000.

An offer of $100,000, made by Hildreth after the colt's victory in the Tremont stakes last Saturday, was refused by Trainer Fred Burlew, acting for his employer, J. H. Rosseter, the California shipping magnate and breeder.

Inchape has started twice this year and was successful on both occasions. He was bred in California.

FULL WEEK-END PROGRAM FOR LAWN BOWLERS

Marine Engineers Clash With Lawn Bowls Club Saturday

PAIRS FINAL POSTPONED

Two Matches For Sunday At Race Course And Junior Golf Club

(BY "SKIP")

Now that the Singles Championship has been decided, the only other Championship match to be settled is the "Pairs." Unfortunately Archie Taylor's protracted illness prevents this being concluded and I think it will be some time before he will be fit enough to undergo the ordeal of such a tussle as this match should prove to be. The Association has therefore postponed the game indefinitely.

Much interest will be centered on Saturday afternoon on the Marine Engineer's Institute versus Lawn Bowls Club match. This is the second of the series of annual games played between these two Clubs and always creates a deal of excitement. The venue this time is Wayside Park and it is hoped that eight rinks a-side will be available.

SUNDAY'S GAMES

On Sunday the Junior Golf Club entertain the Recreation Club and the Yangtszepoo Bowling Club visit the Lawn Bowls Club at the Race Course. All are four rink contests and should prove interesting and close.

After this week our thoughts will be concentrated on Interport games which is hoped will take place during September but more of this anon as nothing definite has yet been arranged.

The teams for the various matches (with the exception of Yangtszepoo which has not yet been selected) are as follows:

Marine Engineers Institute v. Lawn Bowls Club: To be played at Wayside Park on Saturday at 4 p.m.

Lawn Bowls Club

Modern Y.M.C.A. With Living Quarters Is New Project By Business Men

Definite steps are being taken by an organisation of business men to bring about the erection here of a new modern Y.M.C.A. building for foreign residents and one of the important things aimed at in connection with the project is to provide badly needed housing accommodations in connection with the institution.

The committee that has the project in hand is composed of the following:

Messrs. J. H. Dollar, Chairman, H. H. Arnhold, T. E. Doremus, G. A. Fitch, W. H. Fleming, W. G. Hiltner, H. B. Lane, H. E. Marsden, W. A. B. Nichols, F. R. Sites and C. H. Wentworth.

Recently the international Y.M.C.A. organisation made generous allotments for the erection in Shanghai of a Navy Y.M.C.A. and as it is known that several boards and committees in America now have certain surplus funds at their disposal it is thought that this is the time to bring to the notice of these bodies the need in Shanghai for an institution of the kind planned.

As the first step in the movement the committee in charge is seeking to obtain data to be used in submitting requests to America. The purpose is to learn how many would avail themselves of living accommodations in a Y.M.C.A. institution of the kind planned and to obtain this information questionnaire blanks have been issued to all foreign firms with the request that they be filled out and returned to the committee by employes generally.

Westminster Borough Upsets Old War Traditions; French Figures

London, July 17.—The influence of the war in favor of the male against the female birth rate was disproved in Westminster borough last year, when, according to statistics just published here, 975 boys and 1,000 girl babies were born.

Previous to this time, or, specifically, from 1913 to 1918, inclusive, French birth statistics showed that for every 1,000 girl babies born, the following male births were reported: In 1913, 1,008; in 1914, 1,080; in 1915, 1,033; in 1916, 985; in 1917, 914, and in 1918, 1,177.

JAPANESE HUMOR

Good Example Of It In Story About An Innkeeper And His Guest

Said an innkeeper's wife to her husband:

"The guest who came this evening carries a package that seems to contain things of great value. I wish he would leave it behind."

"I have a good idea," said the husband. "I will give him a great deal of myoga."

The innkeeper carried out his plan and gave myoga, a spicy vegetable supposed to produce forgetfulness, in abundance to the guest with soup and with vegetables, and soon after the guest had departed he hopefully inspected the room. There was no trace of the coveted baggage.

The landlady began to scoff at the inefficacy of myoga as an oblivion producer, but her husband admonished her not to lose faith so easily.

"The myoga has had its effect," he declared.

"What do you mean?" demanded the woman.

"Why, he forgot to pay his bill," replied the husband.—Ajsaku Waseda in The Tourist.

Teacher Heat Victim Coroner's Verdict

Oppressive Weather Cause Of Death Of Man In Hongkew Park, It Is Found

Mr. Joseph G. Moore, assistant master at the Thomas Hanbury School, who died suddenly in Hongkew Park last Monday was a victim of heat, according to the verdict rendered following a coroner's inquest in the British Court before Magistrate G. W King yesterday afternoon.

Dr. F. J. Gauntlett, who performed the autopsy, testified that the body revealed no signs of violence and no traces of poison were found in stomach or intestines. Evidences of acute inflamation, the physician said were present in the brain with fatty degeneration of bodily organs together with other conditions tending to render the victim more liable to feel the effects of extreme heat.

As a boy of the household had asserted that Mr. Moore had been taking strychnine, the Court questioned Dr. Gauntlett carefully on that point.

The physician repeated that he had found no evidence of it and added that if the deceased had taken it, his abnormal condition would have been noticeable before his death.

Japanese Stirred By Chinese Act In Arresting Editor

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 26.—A fresh Sino-Japanese incident has been created by the arrest of Kuang Yun-chin, editor of the Koo Shih Pao and a leading member of the Anfu party, in the Japanese Hotel at Peking on Tuesday.

The Japanese Legation is considering what action should be taken, which probably means that the matter will be referred to Tokio. The Japanese view is that the Chinese police should have notified the Japanese Legation and secured its assent prior to searching these foreign premises, which would have been in accordance with the usual practice in such cases in Peking.

'Mary And Douglas' Win French Praise

Paris Editor Classes Them With Georges Carpentier As 'True Ambassadors'

Paris, July 24.—Georges Carpentier on the one hand and Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks on the other are presented by Ernest Charles, editor of Lanterne, as the best ambassadors France and America have exchanged for a long time. In a leading article in his paper today he declares they have brought the two peoples closer together than official ambassadors have done in recent months.

"They are true ambassadors; they are real propagandists," he says. "They cost less in our budget than the other kind and they do far more good.

"The other day our boxer, Carpentier, came home. He made his voyage over there very useful to himself and to his country. He explained France better to our friends across the ocean than any official minister or decorated propagandist professor. Thanks to Carpentier, our prestige in the United States is raised from the depth our diplomats put it in.

"And then look at those American ambassadors, Douglas and Mary. Just as Carpentier made the voyage over there with his young wife Fairbanks came with his wife to France. We feasted and photographed the king and queen of cinema, and when we received them we found them regular folks. She is pretty, and as for him, well, he is cordial. These two ambassadors pleased us much."

KITTY MARION IS MISSING

Employers, The Birth Control Review, Dubious Of Suicide Threat

New York, July 26.—Kitty Marion, one-time English actress and later one of the most active English militant suffragists, has been missing since July 14, when she wrote a note indicating that she planned suicide. Her letter was addressed to her employers The Birth Control Review, 104 Fifth Avenue, and in it she complained of alleged police persecution, asserting that the police had badgered her in her efforts to sell the birth control propaganda along Broadway.

The disappearance of Miss Marion was disclosed by her employers, who said they did not believe that she had carried out the threat of self-destruction implied in her letter. The former suffragist lived at 245 West Fourteenth Street. Inquiry there yesterday produced only the landlady's statement that detectives had been there to get information about the missing woman.

The Doctor's Advice About Seasickness

By Brice Belden, M. D.

ANY one who has ever been ill on the ocean and is likely to be again will appreciate a serious discussion of the distressing affection known as seasickness. Let us take it seriously, even if the great medical text books do disdain to deal with such a relatively "unimportant" subject.

The nausea, depression, vomiting and collapse associated with seasickness certainly make the victim feel at the time of affliction as though no disturbance transcended it in importance.

The picture in severe seasickness is very similar to that of shock. The symptoms may be indistinguishable from those of concussion of the brain. The patient shows pallor, cold and clammy skin, chilliness, deadly nausea and vomiting of the contents of the stomach and upper part of the intestinal canal, and perhaps there is diarrhoea. Headache and complete nervous prostration occur, and there may be loss of consciousness. In these unconscious cases the similarity to concussion is especially striking.

Seasickness is induced by confused visual sensations due to the complex pitching and rolling of a vessel under certain sea conditions, together with the effect of these movements upon the semi-circular canals of the ears. Giddiness and vertigo are set up through the unwonted movements of the fluids in these canals, which movements affect the equilibrium centres at the base of the brain through repeated and alternating impressions.

The majority of people are liable to seasickness and also able to habituate themselves to the conditions that produce it so as finally to throw on the liability. A few persons cannot be made seasick. Another group consists of individuals who may suffer very slightly or for only a brief period, and not then on every voyage, the matter seeming to depend upon the state of the health and the degree of boat motion. Old sailors sometimes succumb at the beginning of a voyage or in very rough weather. It is also a significant fact that a crew of veterans, when the weather is continuously rough, lose their appetite, temper and normal poise.

On account of the large size and steadiness of modern passenger vessels, seasickness is not so severe and long continued as it used to be. Formerly on the long voyage from England to the East many people had to be put ashore as the only means of saving their lives.

Upon going on a vessel all the senses are assailed at once. The turmoil and confusion, the unstable horizon, the stuffy saloons, the odor of cooking and machine oil, the sights and sounds afforded by those already ill, the apprehensions as to one's prospective doom and emptiness of the stomach all conspire with the fates to lay one low. One should eat a full meal about two hours before starting, as the stomach is less easily upset in mid-digestion.

It has been pointed out that many who feel uncomfortable during a short voyage are really suffering from fatigue and lack of food imposed by restlessness and the apprehension of being ill, and not from seasickness at all. Retching is more likely to occur and is more distressing with an empty stomach, and the attempt to make the deficiency good while on the voyage is a doubtful experiment.

Prevention in this case is better than cure. The prospective traveller should take a dose of a drug known to chemists as chlorbutanol, in capsule form, about an hour before the start, so that it will all be absorbed by the time the ship sails. He should then lie down near the centre of the vessel, with the body disposed lengthways with the ship. The head should be low. It is better to remain on deck. An abdominal pad and bandage give good preventive support.

The dose of chlorbutanol (which is put out under different names by different drug manufacturers) is five grains, and the effects last about six hours. It is a very efficient sedative. On a long voyage it may be taken twice a day. It is really a reliable remedy for seasickness. It is a camphor-like substance, nearly insoluble in water, and very volatile, and hence should be kept in a well stoppered bottle, or put up in capsules or parafined papers.

In the treatment of seasickness, after it has overcome the patient, recumbency, fresh air and abstention from food must be enjoined. Nothing but water should be taken, in order to wash out the stomach. Most attacks last only about forty-eight hours. As the seasickness moderates lemon juice may be given in cold effervescing mineral water.

Beauty's Question Box

PLEASE tell me why my hair cannot be arranged as prettily as I would like to have it. My scalp is clear from dandruff, but the hair is too thin in front and is very oily.—A. L. P.

Remove this excessive oil by shampooing the hair once a week for a short time only with a strong mixture made up of one ounce of tincture of green soap and a half ounce of alcohol. Rub this thoroughly over the scalp, rinse in clear water and dry in the sunshine. Afterward apply this tonic, the use of which by itself may also be kept up for three months or more:

|---|---|
| Tincture of cantharides | 2 drams |
| Bisulphate of quinine | 10 grains |
| Castor oil | 1 dram |
| Bay rum | 6 ounces |

PLEASE be kind enough to tell me what will make the breath pure. I do not like to chew peppermints all the time, but am very sensitive about a bad breath.—HELEN S.

Probably it is the waste matter that you retain in your system from day to day that gives you this bad breath. Or it may be that your teeth are in need of immediate attention from your dentist. The latter is easily remedied, but if the bad breath continues then you must so regulate your diet, drink and baths that your bowels, kidneys and skin will be able to throw off the impurities of your system. Also rinse your mouth twice a day with some antiseptic lotion. This will sweeten your breath far more effectively than peppermints.

WHAT do you recommend for the growth of the eyelashes that will not be injurious to the eye?—READER.

A simple daily application of lanolin, rubbing it gently into the lids twice a day, will soon stimulate the growth of the lashes and put them once more into a normal condition. Be careful that none of it enters the cavity of the eye. By exercising this simple precaution there is no danger to the eye itself.

Household Hints

Packing China.

THERE is very little danger of breaking china or glassware when moving if they are packed carefully in damp excelsior.

Nails in Plaster.

NAILS can be driven into a plastered wall without breaking or chipping the plaster if they are first put into very hot water.

For Sheet Music.

INSTEAD of bending back the lower corners of sheet music, as an aid in turning the pages, attach a two-inch piece of transparent gummed adhesive to the lower corner. This will prolong the life of the music.

Table Stains.

STAINS on mahogany or any other wood dining-table can be easily removed by putting two tablespoons of powdered pumice-stone into a piece of cheesecloth. Saturate this with olive oil and rub over the stains. Polish with a dry cloth.

HOW can I reduce my weight? I'm twenty years old and weigh 143 pounds—a great deal too much in proportion to my height. Owing to my long hours of work I cannot take any walks. —N. W. N.

You must then depend largely upon diet. You can also plan to carry out some simple reducing exercises night and morning in your room. Eat much less than usual, especially of the starchy and fattening foods. Reduce your diet at the beginning by one-quarter, then one-third and after that one-half. The slimming results will soon become apparent. If you find the lack of your usual food interferes with your strength then return at once to your regular regimen.

MY hair is badly split at the ends and I have been clipping it, but the more I clip it the more it splits. How can this trouble be remedied?—R. S.

That is one indication that your general health is not so good as it ought to be. Keep on clipping it whenever needed and in addition give your scalp a thorough massage, using the following mixture to stimulate the lethargic hair bulbs:

|---|---|
| Castor oil | 1 gill |
| Alcohol | 3 pints |
| Tinct. of cantharides | 1 dram |
| Borax | 2 ounces |
| Water | 2 ounces |
| Oil of lavender | 1½ ounces |

Shake well before using.

SOAK 2 cups stale bread crumbs in 1 quart scalded milk. When cold add ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup melted butter, 2 slightly beaten eggs, ½ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon flavoring. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a slow oven until firm.

Cocoanut Pudding.

MIX ½ cup cornstarch and ½ cup sugar. Dilute with 1 cup cold milk or water. Stir into 3 cups scalded milk and cook 20 minutes over hot water, stirring constantly until thick and then occasionally. Add 1 cup of drained grated cocoanut, mix well, and fold in 3 stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a mold rinsed with cold water and set in ice box to chill. Serve with cream or custard sauce.

Delicious Rice Pudding.

COOK ½ cup rice until tender in boiling salted water. Scald 3 cups milk and add the drained tender rice. Mix ½ cup sugar with 3 tablespoons cornstarch and dilute with ¾ cup cold milk and add to hot milk, stirring constantly until thick. Cook 20 minutes over hot water. Add the slightly beaten yolks of 4 eggs and cook 2 or 3 minutes, or until the egg is set. Turn into buttered pudding dish and cover with meringue made with 4 egg whites and 8 tablespoons sugar. Bake in a moderate oven until delicately brown.

Chocolate Bread Pudding.

MELT 1½ squares chocolate over hot water and add ¼ cup milk gradually, mixing to form a smooth paste. Add 1¼ cups cold milk gradually and 1 cup soft stale bread or cake crumbs. If bread crumbs are used add 1 cup sugar and if cake crumbs are used add less sugar. Cook over hot water until a smooth creamy paste is formed. If the crumbs lump press through potato ricer. Beat 3 egg yolks until light, add ½ cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter and a pinch of salt and stir into the hot mixture. Cook over hot water until thick, add ½ teaspoon vanilla, turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes. Remove from oven, cover with meringue and bake in a moderate oven until delicately brown. The meringue is made as follows: Beat 3 egg whites until stiff and add gradually 6 tablespoons of sugar and ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Blueberry Pudding.

HEAT 3 cups sweetened stewed berries to boiling point, add ½ cup cornstarch diluted with 1 cup cold water. Bring to boiling point and then cook over hot water about 30 minutes. A few drops of lemon juice may be added. Pour into wet custard cups and chill. Turn out and serve with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with a little grated lemon rind or extract.

Orange Pudding.

MIX 4 tablespoons cornstarch with ½ cup cold water or milk. Add gradually to 3½ cups scalded milk and cook over hot water for 20 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, and then occasionally. Beat 2 egg yolks and add 2 tablespoons sugar and a pinch of salt. Add to cornstarch mixture and cook over hot (not boiling) water 3 or 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Flavor with ½ teaspoon orange extract. Pour into a glass serving dish and sprinkle lightly with sugar. Chill and serve with cream.

Cornstarch Pudding with Strawberry Sauce.

MIX ½ cup cornstarch, 6 tablespoons sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Dilute with ½ cup cold milk or water and add to 3 cups scalded milk. Cook slowly until thick, stirring constantly. Then cook over hot water about ½ hour, stirring frequently. Pour gradually on 2 stiffly beaten egg whites and heat thoroughly. Add 1 teaspoon flavoring. Turn into mold rinsed with cold water and chill. Turn out in large serving dish, decorate with ripe berries, cut in halves, and surround with sauce made as follows: Mix 1 scant cup sweetened strawberry pulp (pressed through sieve) and 1 egg white and heat 10 or 15 minutes. This is an attractive substitute for whipped cream.

EMERSON AND WHITMAN

Comparison of One With The Other Brings Out Interesting Facts

The late Mr. Emerson of Concord is estimated "a highbrow," although he ate pie for breakfast. The late Mr. Whitman of Camden is presented as "a lowbrow" on the evidence not alone of his declarations, but also of his blouse and lack of collar. He reminds us of the Texas statesman who acquired merit by scorning conventional evening clothes, a merit which he is said to have placed at the disposal of "malefactors of great wealth."

The Transcendental Sage spoke of "the oversoul," taught the aristocracy of the spirit, expounded the differentiation of the personality from anything that is gross. In a sense he was himself a patrician of the intellect, the high priest of that New England Brahminism which by reason of its very disdain in insignia is essentially distinguished.

But Emerson is read of the people, or he was a few years ago. He might be reckoned the popular philosopher. He has been inspiration to many an obscure soul. He has consoled many a bruised heart. Everywhere in America readers of Emerson were to be found; he superseded Marcus Aurelius and Thomas Aquinas; he competed with Browning for disciples. And we fancy that Emerson still is read, that he still furnishes secret exaltation.

The Poet of Democracy was a rude, coarse man. He was the Red or Leatherneck bard, so to speak. Emerson appreciated his "Leaves of Grass," but Whitman had not much use for the Boston bunch. The Sage of Camden wanted for his admirers draymen, railroad hands, longshoremen, butchers, barbers, street-car drivers, farm laborers, steel workers.

Has he them? He hasn't. He has "intellectuals," "longhairs," superior women, English cranks, American faddists—but nary a lowbrow on his list. We would wager that in any "lowbrow" assemblage there might be found here and there a reader of Emerson, but not one of Whitman, unless some "intellectual," happened to be maverick in the bunch.—Minneapolis Journal.

Tsao Kun Asks Dismissal Of China's Model Tuchun

BY SWAN SENN

FROM recent Chinese as well as English newspapers, one may learn, with great amazement, that General Tsao Kun has demanded the removal from office of General Yen Hsi-shan, Tuchun and Civil Governor of Shansi, and has proposed to replace him by General Wang Cheng-ping, Commander of one of the Chihli brigades. The grievance General Tsao alleges against General Yen, is that the latter refused to join in the attack on the Anfu Party and sent detachments of his troops to Niang-tzekuan to prevent the Chihli forces from entering his province. And this he takes as an evidence of General Yen's adherence to the Anfu cause.

To ascertain whether this offers sufficient and reasonable grounds for the proposed removal from office of General Yen will not be difficult if we but observe that, while the real motives of the recent upheaval are based on nothing more than personal ambitions, General Yen is a man who has consistently attempted to hold himself aloof from engaging in struggles and intrigues to promote his own personal ends and has decidedly kept in mind his duty to see his territory free from the blight of civil war.

If General Yen is to be dismissed simply because he failed to partake in the recent turmoil, it means that one who maintained an attitude of armed neutrality during a selfish struggle is to blame. But as a matter of fact, an enlightened official only cares to promote the general welfare of his fellow country men and scorns civil war.

Once, I remember I read in THE CHINA PRESS that the recent struggle was wholly private and not public, revengful and not open minded, with the advantage on the side of the Chihli Party because it was comparatively more acceptable and consequently got the backing of the people. In this statement we can place every confidence. That the people wished for the success of the Chihli Party and the downfall of the Anfu Club is not because they esteemed the Chihli leaders as true national heroes and real reformers of China but because they considered them as their only weapons with which to fight against the notorious Anfu Party.

The doctor often recommends strong poisons because they can kill germs. In fact all intelligent Chinese are quite aware that Chang Tso-lin and Tsao Kun are not a whit better than Hsu Shu-tseng and other Anfu leaders, but they are equally convinced that the conditions in China will improve in exact ratio as her notorious officials are decreased in number. So, though it is quite evident that one military party will take the place of another, yet we should not say that the downfall of the Anfu Party is not a favorable sign, for China, like a patient, at least is rid of a number of germs eating at her vitals. And therefore Chinese public opinion supports the new ministry in demanding the removal from office of all prominent Anfu officials inside as well as outside Peking and regards their dismissal as the minimum penalty for their past turpitude.

Chinese know how to utilise their bad officials and they have utilised them to some extent. But one thing the Chinese must observe is that they must utilise the bad officials but must not be utilised by them in turn. The Chinese are strongly advised to guard themselves carefully against being cheated. They have to keep their eyes wide open to every and any movement by those military men now in power. They must not forget that these military men recognise nothing except their personal interests which they will try to advance by any sacrifice of innocent people.

If the Chinese can well utilise these military men, they will be victorious and their support of the Chihli Party will be worth while, and China may, from this time onward, expect to enjoy better conditions.

And now how about General Tsao Kun's proposed removal from office of General Yen! I propose to call the attention of every Chinese to this thoughtful demand. The Chinese must think, before they come to a decision whether General Yen, deserves to be dismissed, and whether they will support this proposal as they have supported other proposals of a somewhat similar nature. They are again warned that they must not think that General Yen's dismissal is justifiable simply because he is, as General Tsao Kun asserts, an adherent of the Anfu Party.

Whether or not General Yen's adherency to the Anfu Party is true may be left to one side. The hateful and scornful points are not the name of the Anfu Club but the men belonging to the Anfu Club who carried out its destructive policies. Now let us take note of the policies carried out by General Yen during his Tuchunship in Shansi beginning in 1916. Are they hateful and scornful and destructive? No! Instead, they have guided his province into the paths of peace and prosperity in spite of obstacles within and without.

General Yen has been a liberal patron of such reform movements as anti-foot-binding, athletics, and the boy scouts. His work on behalf of education and his honest attempts to introduce administrative reforms have made his name famous throughout China. During his visit to Peking in 1918, he had conferred upon him the title of the "Model Tuchun" which he well deserves. He may be described, among all the Tuchuns of China, as the only one who has done nothing evil to China. In fact, had there been a few more tuchuns who, like General Yen, concerned themselves only with the promotion of peace and prosperity within the territories over which they ruled, instead of partaking in struggles to advance their personal interests, the conditions in China would have been improved to a great extent.

Under the leadership of General Yen, in the province of Shansi, the schools have been increasing in number, and industry has been greatly improved. During his four years of tuchunship, Shansi has assumed a different aspect. So, before I conclude, I wish to say that to dismiss such an enlightened official would be a great injustice which would arouse intense indignation throughout China; I again emphasise that the Chinese people must watch all the time to check the evil and selfish designs of the military men now in control.

General Yen is an apostle of progress and civilisation who uses his small army in building roads, bridges and factories instead of using it to ravish and destroy, to conquer and suppress his country and his people.

BIRDS OF PREY

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—The Public Gardens have figured in print recently and many references have been made to the music played there, obstruction by children, selfish grabbers of seats, ruffians, beach-combers, etc., etc., but there is one other subject that has not yet been touched upon, which is in my mind an important one, and that is, male flirts.

It is not always possible for a lady to go to the gardens accompanied, and when alone she is often accosted by men who have no other thought than that the Garden is a place where they can look for "game." Nor is this confined to young men, for the place is frequented by people old enough to know better, notably a grey-haired man who has been trying to attract my attention and is persistent in his ways, hovering around where I happen to be sitting, or at times taking a seat purposely close enough in order to get me to look at him, and staring at me, finally trying to get me into conversation with him. He has not been given the chance to go far enough for me to find out what it is exactly he wants, but it's a good guess. Now, such attentions are a nuisance and detract from the otherwise attractive park. Personally, I feel that a man of such caliber as needs to accost a strange lady in a public park has very poor judgment, and the more he tries such ways with respectable girls the more repulsive he becomes.

The garden is a retreat for fresh air and quiet, and one should have the privilege of passing an hour there without being molested. A more frequent foreign police service within, so that one in such a predicament can make an appeal, and an eye by the police on these habitues would soon put a stop to this obnoxious practice.

Thanking you for giving space to this letter, I am, Yours truly,

A VICTIM.

August 26, 1920.

Spending Other People's Money

We learn from The Searchlight, a monthly critic of the United States Government, that the army mule and horse fared extremely well during the last war. It states that in these days of limousines and flivvers little attention is given to their noble predecessor, the horse, nor his more humble half-brother, the mule, but it is gradually becoming evident that both the horse and the mule played a most important part in the world war, for without them much profiteering and profligacy of expenditures would have been possible. The official figures given and their criticism is as follows: There were, all told, in and for the army, 580,182 horses and mules. For that number of equine and muline aids, the farsighted win-the-war quick authorities bought:

2,850,853 halters, about five for each deserving animal.

1,637,199 brushes, nearly three for one.

2,033,204 nose bags, giving every spirited steed one for each meal, with fresh ones for occasional luncheons.

1,148,364 horse covers, one for week days and one for Sunday.

585,615 saddle bags, one for each, assuming that all were riding academy stock, which is doubtful because of the next items.

500,326 sets of double harness and 110,828 single sets.

945,000 saddles, raising another doubt as to the character of the steeds.

8,781,516 horseshoes each horse having four feet, some of the mules more.

195,000 branding irons, making it unnecessary to use the same marker more than 2¼ times.

"Ninety-six thousand horses and mules died," says the writer, "for which no blame can attach to the authorities, for the reason that no ordinary beast could be expected long to survive the burden of carrying the halters, harness, saddles, etc., that were bought for them."

The writer asserts that the nation, through its military rulers, was just as liberal with the men whose title or equipment suggest cavalry association. For the swiveleer and field ordnance officers there were purchased 712,510 complete sets of spur straps—about 36 sets for each officer. And Great Britain had 50,000,000 yards of khaki, enough for 10,000,000 more soldiers, left over when the war ended.

Politics

One of the anomalies of present-day politics is the savage arraignment of President Wilson and his party by the Republicans for being too radical and the complaint by all our radical parties that he and his followers are not radical enough. A leader who loses the support of both conservatives and liberals may be thought to be in a bad way, but such is not always the case.—New York World.

Commissioner Schuhl, following in the steps of Assessor Grant Jones, has issued warning to those who obstruct our traffic. He says that he will impose the full penalty of the law upon law breakers. This ought to put a stop to the nuisance, and also to the pamphlets that are at present finding their way into the editorial W. P. B.

In view of the fact that pedestrians still persist in walking about to the common danger of motorists, and that many accidents have been alleged to happen through this seeming neglect, it is imperative that speedy measures should be taken to reinforce the powers of the police in order to safeguard that portion of the public who are motorists.

It is therefore of interest to note that a club has been formed, to be known as the Automobility Club, whose members shall be restricted to pedestrians, and the password of which is "Velocity" that being the thing a man gets out of the way of an auto with.

The object of the club is to form rules and regulations for the proper conduct of pedestrians in the street. In the first place the club is experimenting with a well known American car, which is so light that it only makes a very slight indentation on coming in contact with a pedestrian.

They have decided to have a medal struck, to be known as the D. A. U. (Distinguished Activity Order), bearing on its face a chaffeur rampant, pedestrians expectant, and policeman couchant, which will be awarded for gallantry in crossing from Watson's to Whiteaway-Laidlaws, between the hours of noon and noon-thirty.

The rules suggested by the club are as follows:

Rule 1. Motorists proceeding through busy streets at night are ordered to apply their brakes upon feeling a jolt, to attract the attention of the nearest policeman and at once to attend to the victim.

* * *

Rule 2.—Pedestrians, before crossing the road, to leave their name and addresses with the policeman on duty, and also to indicate their favorite institution.

Rule 3.—Pedestrians and conscientious objectors tired of life must state the fact clearly before crossing the road. This is necessary, because under the Defense of the Realm Act it is illegal for a man to give evidence at his own inquest.

* * *

Rule 4.—Irritated pedestrians are strictly forbidden to jump out at street corners and fire at motorists until they have had some practice by shooting at clay pigeons.

* * *

Rule 5.—Pedestrians upon reaching the middle of the road and hearing a noise like a motor should observe the following rules: Step aside smartly. Rapidity rather than grace of movement is essential. Do not, upon finding yourself under a motor, attempt to crawl out too quickly or shout, for Nature, which abhors a vacuum, may tempt the motor to jump on you again. Wait patiently until they have removed the car.

* * *

Rule 6.—A series of signals shall be arranged for motorists along the following lines: One blast on the horn will indicate that if you lie flat the motor may pass over you. Two blasts will signify that the motor is too close upon you, but if you will do a back hand-spring over the car you may escape with a few bruises. Three blasts on the horn will indicate that all hope is abandoned, but that the motorist will hurry round and tell your people. And think what a consolation this will be to you in your last moments. Of course, in this last extremity there is no limitation to the number of blasts you may use yourself, or what other ornamentation of the English language you may adopt.

A "JOHN BULL" LIMERICK

At Clerkenwell County Court an undertaker pleaded that his takings were small; he had only one order in a fortnight, and, unfortunately for him, there was a slump in funerals.

There's a sad undertaker whose cry
Is that funerals no one will buy;
The reason we give
'Tis expensive to live,
But in these days it costs more to die.

Domestic Issues Of The Campaign

High Prices, Taxation And Election Expenditures Call For New Legislation

BY SAMUEL UNTERMYER

Quite as urgent as the question of the interpretation of the Eighteenth Amendment and ranking in equal importance among our domestic problems is the devising of effective means of curbing profiteering. The Lever act, at best an ineffective piece of legislation, is a war measure. Even as such it is of doubtful constitutionality, but as applied to peace conditions it would be clearly unconstitutional. There is no power in the Federal Government to limit profits except, perhaps, indirectly through the taxation of the profits of the businesses engaged in interstate commerce or by requiring the successive vendors of merchandise that passes in interstates commerce to disclose the various costs as the merchandise travel from hand to hand—a difficult and what might prove an unworkable plan, although it is worthy of trial. Something must be done and taxing exorbitant profits out of existence is probably the most feasible method of destroying the irresistible temptation to profiteering.

Never have the percentages of profits or the returns on capital in business been so extortionate. Among the manufacturers and middlemen every department of industry is honeycombed with pools, combinations, secret understandings or gentlemen's agreements. The famine in merchandise of recent years has rendered this situation still more acute than in former times, since there is no longer the incentive as formerly to break through price regulations. The laws that were intended to restrain these combinations have completely broken down, as most students of the subject predicted that they would. Public regulation, publicity as to costs and taxation are the only remedies, and the need for them has become imperative.

When we come to the consideration of the general question of taxation as an issue in this campaign, the most dangerous enemy of scientific treatment of the subject is the demagogue, who by inveighing against the escape of the rich from taxation has driven our legislators from the extreme of the unjust immunity of wealth from taxation, which it formerly enjoyed, to the imposing of burdens that threaten to destroy all incentive and initiative and to force capital into refuge behind non-taxable securities. As among those who for twenty-five years or more prior to the adoption of the income tax law continuously urged the justice of that form of taxation of wealth, I am satisfied that that method of raising revenue has been overdone and that as a result of the abuse of this power new enterprises are today in a state of semi-paralysis. No civilised country penalises great incomes to the extent of ours, and a sane reform in that respect is essential to our continued prosperity.

Money contributions to candidates for Federal office is another question that was of sufficient moment to have received detailed consideration and commitments in both platforms. It is a perplexing and many-sided problem. That the use of money is essential and legitimate to accomplish organisation and to bring before the country the merits of the respective candidates, to promote publicity, to arouse interest in the elections and to bring out the vote, is universally conceded. The proposal that this expenditure be undertaken by the Government is as objectionable and impracticable as are the present unjust laws limiting the expenditures by candidates for office to certain specified sums regardless of the number of the constituency, the expense of publicity or the extent of the territory to be covered. There are some communities in which $100 legitimately expended will yield as great returns as would $1,000 in others. A drastic, comprehensive law that would require the filing of detailed statements of receipts and expenditures and of promises, loans of money, liabilities incurred and commitments made, once each week and again two days before the primary or election and still again thirty days thereafter, by every one who gives, contributes, loans, promises, commits himself for or receives in excess of $100 would answer every legitimate purpose. Allow any party or candidate to expend what it or he please, but see to it that in ample time before the polls close the people know in the most minute detail what is being spent, for what purpose and by whom. They can then judge as to the motives for the contributions and whether the expenditures were necessary or proper. As primaries and elections are now conducted under the prevailing loose and ineffective "Corrupt Practices acts," that conduce more to corruption than to the prevention of fraud and corruption, I venture to guess that in a Presidential campaign more unreported money is spent than that which is reported.

The disastrous effect upon a fair test of strength between the parties of a limitation upon the amount of individual subscriptions is well illustrated by the situation in the present campaign. The financial manager of the Republican Party is himself many times a millionaire who has promoted many great enterprises in the stock market. He is one of the most closely affiliated men in the United States with the great international banking houses, with their endless ramifications. For a year or more he, in conjunction with Will Hays, the Chairman of the National Committee, has been devoting himself to organising the financing of this campaign all over the country and he has done it with his usual ability and thoroughness. He has shrewdly announced that no single subscription of over $1,000 will be received, but all indications point to the conclusion that the fund to be raised by him will be the biggest in the history of political campaigns, and that it will exceed the fabulous sum of $10,000,000, a part of which has already been advanced or committed. The names of the contributors will constitute the roster of the book of "Directory of Directors" (and of their sisters and their cousins and their aunts) of all the great corporations of the country and of the tariff beneficiaries, profiteers and other special interests and men of great wealth who regard the Republican Party as their bulwark against the rising tide of corporate, industrial and economic reform.

The officers, Directors and associates of the United States Steel Corporation may alone be counted on for at least $1,000,000 even if the salaries of some of the officers of their numerous subsidiaries will have to be increased, and the same is true in lesser degree of the officers of almost every great bank, trust company, railroad, life and fire insurance, and industrial corporation in the country.

Nothing could be more pernicious or more calculated to align the moneyed classes against the masses than this apparently fair and harmless-looking plan of financing the Republican campaign. These objections tend to prove the inherent and almost insurmountable difficulties of the subject. To my mind, it would be vastly safer, in the public interest, to remove all restrictions as to the amount of individual subscriptions and rely upon the rigid enforcement of complete publicity at frequent intervals before the election.

The Democratic Party has not the remotest hope of raising any substantial fund by the means adopted by the Republicans. It has few rich men among its membership and they must make substantial sacrifices in order to secure the bare necessities of the campaign, which places the party at a great disadvantage unless it can be offset by an exposure of the elements that make up the financial support of its opponents. If this can be honestly and fully accomplished the money handicap will be largely overcome, but it will not be an easy task under the most favorable conditions.

Truly these are all momentous issues. It is a pity that our form of government is such that they cannot be submitted singly or in the form of a questionnaire, for when the election is over we shall not really know which of them the people have approved or disapproved.

American Loans To Germany

Le Temps (Paris) devotes a leader to the financial aid which Germany is receiving from the United States. Besides describing the alleged plan for operating the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American lines under a co-operative agreement with American capital, this paper says:

"It was recently reported that the city of Darmstadt had floated a small loan of 10,000,000 marks exclusively in the American market. The city of Coblenz anticipated its southern neighbor by selling part of a loan in America a year ago; but this operation was sub rosa. The city proposes to ask American subscriptions officially this year for a larger sum, rumored to be 50,000,000 marks.

"German manufacturers are devising various schemes to obtain credit for raw materials purchased in America. An experiment is about to be made on a small scale. Several spinners and weavers in Silesia have contracted with a group of American capitalists for cotton on credit. The American suppliers will have a lien upon the cloth made from this cotton.

"It is known that five large Chicago packers supplied Germany on credit last year with considerable quantities of meat and lard. The German Government paid for these provisions with short-term mark notes. The receivers of those notes would have suffered considerable loss if American exchange had continued to decline. But the recent recovery in the mark has led to a renewal and extension of these credits."—Living Age.

Discourses Of A Scientist

BY EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN

(Director of Mt. Lowe Observatory)

Here is a table which presents records of one of the most remarkable motions known to astronomy:

Right Ascensions And Declinations Of Polaris

| Years | Right Ascension Hrs. | Min. | Sec. | Declinations (North) Deg. | Min. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1880 | 1 | 14 | 46 | 88 | 40 |
| 1885 | 1 | 16 | 37 | 88 | 41 |
| 1890 | 1 | 18 | 31 | 88 | 43 |
| 1895 | 1 | 20 | 30 | 88 | 45 |
| 1900 | 1 | 22 | 10 | 88 | 46 |
| 1905 | 1 | 24 | 15 | 88 | 48 |
| 1910 | 1 | 26 | 52 | 88 | 50 |
| 1915 | 1 | 29 | 25 | 88 | 52 |
| 1920 | 1 | 31 | 42 | 88 | 53 |

All declinations north and south are started from the celestial equator, which is the earth's equator expanded to infinity. The distances of the poles of the celestial sphere, imaginary ends of the earth's axis of rotation prolonged indefinitely, must always by rules of geometry be precisely 90 degrees from the equator. Polaris, our North Star, really a giant sun, is near to the axis of the earth extended. This line is the axis of the terrestrial and celestial equator, both identical, as they are on the same plane.

But the declination of the North Polar Star is constantly increasing—that is, it is getting farther and farther from the equator. There are two ways to accomplish this: The equator might be at rest and the star move away from it, or the star might be at rest and the equator move away.

Now it was shown by the immortal Newton that the equator moves. As it does not move with reference to the surface of the earth, and solid earth must move. The motion is slow, but the higher grades of ancients detected it during centuries of observation. Then the axis has to move. It does and is approaching Polaris. The equator, therefore, is slowly moving away from the North Star. But the axis will never reach the polar star; it will draw a little nearer, pass and recede, to return after a vast period of 25,788 years.

The motion is technically called the Precession of the Equinoxes, really a recession, as they retrograde; that is, move in direction opposite the motions of all the planets, or from east to west.

The earth is comparable to a peg top spinning on the pavement. Spin rapidly, and it will stand in a perpendicular for a short time and then lean over with a wabbling motion. Then if the axis could be extended and make a mark on a surface above it, the trace would be a spiral as it leans more and more. But the earth does not lean more and more, but revolves around the sun with its axis inclined toward the plane of its orbit at an angle for January 1, 1920, of 23 degrees 59 minutes 27 seconds. And the circle described by the pole is twice this in diameter. Therefore the North Pole of the earth is drawing slowly nearer to the North Star only to pass and recede.

This causes the side of every building on earth to make incessantly varying angles with a line drawn to any star near the celestial pole. The astute Egyptians discovered this remarkable fact and then desired that all future generations should know they had discovered the Annus Magnus, or Great Year. So they erected the gigantic pyramid of Khufu, with an inclined tube opening in the north facade, so that rays from their polar star would shine down the length of the tube in stone. The Egyptians knew that the axis of the earth makes a revolution in about 25,000 years, and builded the pyramid to endure and keep the tube pointed northward during one or more periods. Their Polaris was the star now named Ilpha Dracomis, whose light did shine down the tube 2170 years B. C.

The abstruse cause of gyration of the axis of our earth can be at once understood by looking at a rotating gyroscope. The heavy rim or ring revolves and the axis wabbles as speed runs down. The earth is not a sphere, but is twenty-seven miles greater in diameter through the plane of the equator than along the axis through the poles. The sun and moon both attract this massive ring and secure a leverage tending to pull the equator down from its angle into the plane of the orbit of the earth, making the axis perpendicular thereto. This cannot occur, because the earth rotates on its axis and obeys the law of mechanics called the persistency of plane of rotation due to the well-known laws of inertia of matter. But the equator skews around, and so does every building on earth. The good pyramid builders knew it and wanted us to know they knew it. The equinoxes, vernal and autumnal, are where the plane of the equator passes through the center of the sun. But if the equator skews around or slides in the plane of the orbit of the earth, the equinoxes slide around in a retrograde motion and thus cause all of the meridians to revolve around the cosmic sphere.

A Vindication Of Old Maids

BY REV. DR. J. R. STRATON

(Pastor Calvary Baptist Church New York City)

Life at last is made up of but two things: romance and religion. All materialities are merely contributions to these two essentials. Art and literature, the stage and the pulpit reveal them to us. Hence, their unfailing interest. Therefore, when anyone among us specialises the law of affinity, which belongs to romance, we salute him with marked fervor and shower him with choicest blessings. Hence the question of marriage is a vitally important question. A Scotch girl was once told that it was a very solemn thing to marry. She replied, "Yes, but it is a great deal solemner thing not to marry!"

This raises the question, of course, of the left-overs or maiden ladies, and this in turn involves the question of age. When the late King of England was Prince of Wales he once asked a very pretty woman her age. She replied "Just twenty-five." Five years later he met her again when he asked her the same question. 'Just twenty-five," she replied again. The Prince smiled and said: "Five years ago you made the same answer." "Ah, Your Highness," said she, "surely you don't think I am a woman who says one thing today and another tomorrow!"

A college professor was one day discussing before his class the process of fertilising plants by means of insects carrying pollen from one plant to another. He told them that the old maids were the ultimate cause of it all. He explained this as follows: The bumble bees carry the pollen, the field mice eat the bumble bees. Therefore, the more field mice the fewer bumble bees and the less pollen and variation of plants. But cats devor field mice and old maids protect cats. Therefore the more old maids the more cats, the fewer field mice, the more bees. Hence old maids are the cause of it all!

Thereupon an inquiring student, with a single eyeglass, arose and asked: "I say, professah, what is the cause—ah, of so many old maids today, don't you know?" "The present breed of young men!" replied the professor sharply and without a moment's hesitation.

OLD MAIDS WHO HAVE HELP

What would this world have been without the glorious and lovely old maids who have blessed it? Not having homes and children of their own, how often have we seen these rare and beautiful characters mothering everybody and making homes for others, often who otherwise would have been without such love and care.

History discloses the fact that maiden ladies have played a conspicuous and noble part in the progress of the human race. Think for a moment of a few of these. Queen Elizabeth, in whose reign England reached her golden age. Florence Nightingale, angel of mercy in the Crimea War and establisher of organised nursing in war times. Dorothea Dix, pioneer of reform in prison and reformatory methods. Frances E. Willard, founder of the temperance movement. Rosa Bonheur, who opened new artistic fields in the representation of animal life. Clara Barton, founder of the Red Cross Society and savior of thousands from death and suffering. Joan of Arc, one of the important factors in French history, and the most remarkable woman of all time. Susan B. Anthony, pioneer in efforts to procure equal rights for women. Charlotte Bronte, whose novels are among the best in English literature. Jane Austen, whose pen pictures of English life promise to be immortal. Jane Addams, first citizen of Chicago and head of the Hull House. Julia Lathrop, chosen from among the women of America to lead in preserving child life and happiness throughout the country.

AWAITING THE BEST

We pay a heart-felt tribute, therefore, to those noble women who, for early love's sake, or because someone near to them is dependent upon them, or who for other reasons elect to remain single. We also should pay sincere tribute to those women who have so high and noble ideal of manhood and the marriage relationship that they refuse to rush hastily into a matrimonial alliance with the first plausible "prospect" who comes along. Such women doubtless say, in their deeper hearts, with old John Burroughs:

"Serene I fold my hands and wait
Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea,
I have no more 'gainst time or fate
For lo! my own shall come to me.
I stay my haste, I make delays
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.
Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me,
No wind can drive my bark astray
Nor change the tide of destiny.
The stars come nightly to the sky.
The tidal wave unto the sea,
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me."

Girl Sues Prince For Gold Bathtub

Paris, July 17.—Prince Elisseieff, a Russian, and his golden bathtub have been figuring in the Parisian courts this week following the application of Mlle. Bresil, a theatrical artiste, that the Prince be restrained from selling the tub until he has paid his debts accrued during a long period of friendship.

The Prince decided recently to break off his past and married a rich widow. Mlle. Bresil says that the Prince's ideas of Parisian life were more extravagant than his income justified, his casual expenses exceeding $20,000, with yearly rent and foot bills reaching another $12,000.

Since his marriage the Prince has decided that a morning dip in a certain gold lined tub which adorned his former menage was unnecessary, and he placed it with certain furniture in the hands of auctioneers. Mlle. Bresil asked the court to hand over the tub in part payment of her account, but the judges decided that the question of the priority of her claims, against which the Prince is objecting, would have to be decided first.

In the meantime the tub will remain unsold, although there are said to be scores of nouveau riche bidders willing to pay as much as 50,000 francs for it.
